Quick Witted.
"One day last week I was informed by telephone of a fire in my own office, not six feet away from where I was standing," said a prominent Wall-street broker. "A client with whom I had been talking, after lighting a cigar, threw the burning match into the wastebasket under my desk. As I went to the door with him I heard the telephone bell ring violently. When I answered the call I was surprised to be told that there was a lively blaze under my desk, which had been seen by a bright office-boy in the opposite building. The fire was hidden from me by a high filing cabinet, and might have done serious damage before I discovered it myself. I am now hunting for that boy." he added. "Any one quick witted enough to think of telephoning in such an emergency I can use in my business."—New York Press.

Pluto's Safety Valve.
A round, smooth hole in the side of a granite monument about nine miles out from the City of Mexico is locally known by a term which signifies "Pluto's safety valve." The hole is about nine inches in diameter at the opening, which is polished in a manner which suggests human workmanship. That man had nothing to do with drilling or polishing this hole will be readily surmised when it is known that it has occasionally emitted hot air and smoke during a period extending over 300 years.

The Man of Force.
There is always room for a man of force, and he makes room for many. Society is a troop of thinkers, and the best heads among them take the best places. A feeble man can see the farms that are fenced and tilled, the houses that are built. The strong man sees the possible houses and farms. His eye makes estates as fast as the sun breeds clouds.—Emerson.

Quite Familiar.
"There is not much in a name, perhaps," said a young Sunday school teacher. "Still it did give me a turn last Sunday when I asked a boy in my class how many apostles there were to have him look up and reply carelessly, 'Oh, a dozen or so!'"

Two and Two.
There is no difference between a mile square and a square mile. Each contains 640 acres. There is, however, a difference between two miles square and two square miles.—San Francisco Call.

Wonderful.
Bridgroom—What's the matter, driver? Coachman—The horse has just thrown a shoe. Bridgroom—Great Scott! Do even better! Know we are just married!

Telephone Extension.
The New York Telephone Company has recently installed in the Stages Cooper store on Sixth avenue, what is said to be the largest telephone system ever installed in any commercial establishment in the world. A large switchboard has been installed on the third floor of the store, which are designed to telephone to all the customers and at every selling point throughout the establishment. Other department stores in New York are taking up this system, although the Stages Cooper system is the only system of the kind in operation in New York at the present time.—News (New York) March 3, 1906.

Carpet Cleaning.
Now is the time to clean carpets. If you want your carpets taken up, cleaned and relaid, send word to D. Douglass, No. 2 Park street, Montclair. Mr. Douglass has had years of experience in carpet cleaning, and has a large patronage in this town, Glen Ridge and Montclair. Those intending to move can have their carpets taken up, cleaned and relaid on short notice. The work will be well and promptly done.—Advt.

Library Notes.
"Hearts and Creeds," by Ann Chapin Ray, is the strongest novel written by this talented author. It is a romance of Quebec and deals with the marriage of Arline Lord, a Protestant girl and Amedee Lebon, a Catholic. The difficulties created by the mingling of the French and English races, and the same time their distinctly separate social life, are strongly depicted.

"Under the Arch," by Lady Henry Somerset, is a novel of modern London and deals with the great city's "submerged tenth," as well as the small-boat set.

Owen Wister's new novel, "Lady Baltimore," is full of interest, just as good a book as "The Virginian," though totally different. In it the author paints for us the old-time picture of the life of the old South that has made it a true American novel, subject, spirit and atmosphere.

Three big volumes belonging to the family have been published containing maps of the different parts of Essex county, New Jersey. One of these, including Bloomfield, is in the reference department of the library. It gives property lines and measurements, shows the location of all buildings and estates by one of three colors—white, red and blue.

This is of special interest and value to local business men, particularly those interested in real estate and insurance. In "Hawthorne's Yesterday," H. M. W. gives us chapters from a boy's life in the Sandwich Islands in the early days. From cover to cover the book is interesting.

Professor Willoughby of Johns Hopkins has contributed a volume to the American State Series, published by the Century Company. It is named "Territories and Dependencies of the United States," and deals ably with the government of the same.
